

MID-ULSTER RED SQUIRREL GROUP

Working together, with council, to support our under-threat native red squirrel population and their ever-shrinking habitat; for the benefit of contributing to the wider Irish & UK red squirrel conservation efforts, and helping empower our entire community to make lasting, positive change!

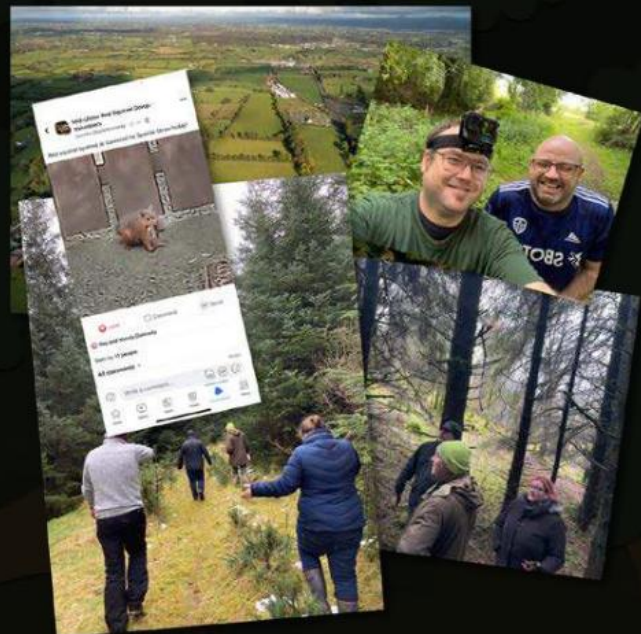

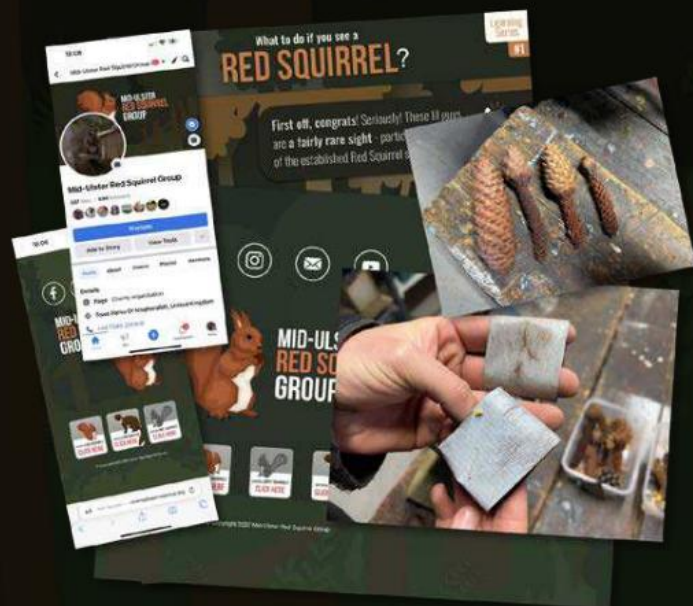

1. Monitoring and studying red squirrels in their natural habitat.

Encouraging the red squirrel population to grow by ensuring their environmental needs are met.

The removal of the invasive grey squirrel via regulated, safe, and humane trapping / dispatch methods

2. Educating the general public, landowners and statutory and voluntary bodies on how to create and maintain an environment that is sympathetic to red squirrel survival.

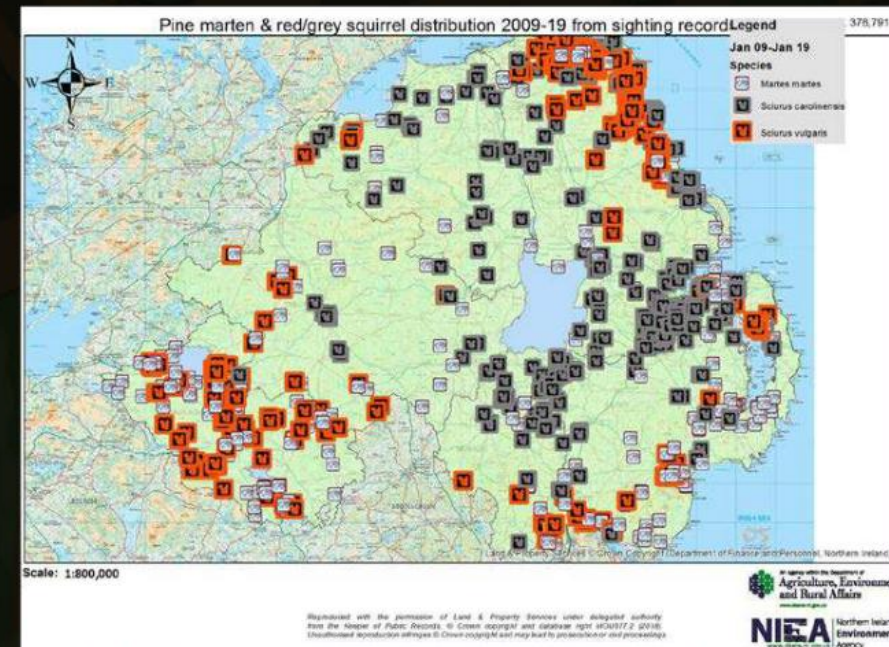

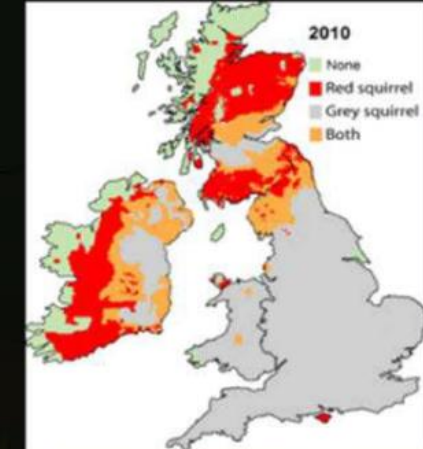

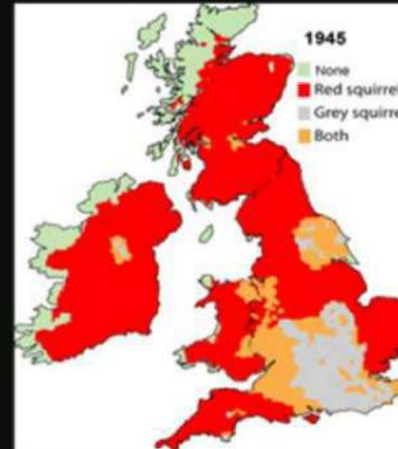

3. To raise funds in order to facilitate the groups purposes.

4. Ensuring close collaboration with our allies in the red squirrel community, along with all associated groups and organisations, situated right across the island of Ireland

- The stark reality is that unless we make a committed, serious effort to stop the decline of our much-cherished native red squirrel, they will be made extinct on these shores within a lifetime.
- It is imperative that we support current populations through subsistence feeding and habitat protection and expansion; increase grey squirrel removal efforts; nurture and educate the growing support community via multiple media interactions, along with appropriate display acknowledgement across associated areas of the public domain.
- Things need to change! While the Mid-Ulster Red Squirrel Group is here to help bring about that change, it is only with full support and backing of council, Forestry Service, and other associated public bodies that we can save our beautiful red squirrel.
